Examiner’s Comments

Nine students sat for the exam. Six students did excellent work, attaining distinction marks of at least 75%. Out of these students, three achieved high distinction results of over 85%. There was one pass and two failures.

Students generally managed the available time well in addressing the required number of questions.

My observations are:

- With two exceptions, students’ handwriting was relatively easy to read.
- Students who achieved distinction/high distinction marks clearly displayed the benefits of independent research.
- Unfortunately, two students did not sit for the examination. One had achieved an assignment mark of 19/20.

As in previous examinations, the answers of candidates who achieved distinction marks displayed very well developed and concisely expressed arguments leading to valid conclusions.

I warmly congratulate the candidate who achieved the highest overall mark of 93% and others who achieved passes with distinction.

Bill Henningham
Examiner