PART E: What to expect when seeking assessment

When assessing your qualifications, the Academic Exemptions Sub-Committee will take into account (unless the application relates to overseas studies not leading to an overseas law qualification):

- The Legal Profession Uniform Admission Rules 2015 (Rules 5 and 11, and Schedule 1), available at legislation.nsw.gov.au/view/html/inforce/current/sl-2015-0240, or, if the application relates to overseas studies not leading to an overseas law qualification:

- Rule 97 of the NSW Admission Board Rules 2015, available at www.lpab.justice.nsw.gov.au and:

- The Uniform Principles for Assessing Qualifications of Overseas Applicants for Admission to the Australian Legal Profession (the Uniform Principles), available at <https://www.legalservicescouncil.org.au/Pages/about-us/law-admissions-consultative-committee.aspx>
- 'What to Expect when Seeking Academic Exemptions' guide (What to Expect Guide), available at www.lpab.justice.nsw.gov.au

You should also take into account:

- Academic Exemptions Guidelines for Ethics and Professional Responsibility, available at www.lpab.justice.nsw.gov.au
- Guidelines for Interpreting Overseas Marks and Grades, available at www.legalservicescouncil.org.au/Pages/about-us/law-admissions-consultative-committee.aspx.

You should read these documents when completing this application, to understand how your qualifications are assessed and determined.

The Academic Exemptions Sub-Committee will, in considering your application, assess whether your past studies and/or experience demonstrates that you have the required understanding and competence in each of the academic areas of knowledge set out in Schedule 1 to the Uniform Admission Rules.

Factors that are taken into consideration when assessing your qualifications include:

- the nature of your qualification (please note that credit is not usually granted for studies that do not to some extent meet the academic requirements for admission, for example a post graduate qualification that does not lead to admission or a practical legal training course);
- the length and age of your studies;
- the subjects you studied and the results you received in those subjects;
- the jurisdiction in which you obtained your qualification or studied (if you are relying on studies in a jurisdiction not listed in Schedule 2 of the Uniform Principles, you will usually have to study subjects covering all of the areas of knowledge set out in Schedule 1 to the Uniform Admission Rules in order to satisfy the academic requirements for admission);
- whether or not you are admitted, and if so, when; and
- if admitted, the length, breadth and depth of your experience – if you have been admitted for five or more years and have practised extensively since your admission, including in a specialised area relating to an area set out in Schedule 1 to the Uniform Admission Rules, you may not be required to complete study in that area.

PART F: Submitting your application

Filling in the application

Please ensure you complete every question on every page of the application. Your application may be delayed if you have not followed the instructions or not completed every question correctly.

You can fill in the application electronically and print it out to sign. Or you can print it and fill it in by handwriting.

Please:

- Do not exceed the maximum page limits.
- Do not provide course or subject descriptions or outlines, details of practical legal training courses or subjects, copies of judgments or details of cases unless specifically requested by the Office of the LPAB or the Academic Exemptions Sub-Committee.

The Academic Exemptions Sub-Committee may choose not to consider the information that is provided in excess of the maximum page limits.

Attach all the required documentation

Please ensure you attach all the required documentation (Part C). Your application cannot be processed if any of your documentation is missing. Note:

- Where an original document is required, only an original will be accepted. Notarised or certified copies are not an acceptable substitute where an original is required.
- Original transcripts of your academic record and practical legal training course will be retained permanently in the Board's office and you will not need to provide these transcripts at the time you apply for admission.
- If you are unable to provide original transcripts of your academic record and/or practical training course, please contact the Office of the Board before submitting your application. Failure to provide original transcripts is likely to result in a delay in the assessment of your qualifications, due to the need to agree on and obtain verification from other sources.

Submit your application with your fee

After you complete the application, you need to scan the material (including the copy of the receipt for payment of the prescribed fee) into a single PDF digital file and email the PDF file to lpab@justice.nsw.gov.au.

Do not email the PDF file if any evidence or details are missing, and do not email multiple separate PDFs. All your documentary evidence must be included in a single PDF file.

After you email your PDF, you must also forward the original application, including original academic and practical legal training transcripts, and other supporting documents by post to the Office of the LPAB at GPO Box 3980 Sydney NSW 2001, Australia.

Once your email application has been received the Office of the LPAB will check your application and may advise you if anything is not in order or if you need to provide any additional information to support your application.

If you are required to post the originals of your academic and practical legal training transcripts (or any other documentary evidence) to us, your application cannot be determined until after we have received and assessed all the requested originals.

Please contact the Office of the LPAB on lpab@justice.nsw.gov.au or (02) 9338 3500 if you have difficulty in providing original transcripts or emailing your application.
